

2022's News of San Antonio

by Don Mathis

This review of the year is unlike others you may see. This abecedarium gives the news from A to Z.

Alamo archaeology may be news of the decade if they find the line in the sand Col. Travis made.

Bravo is censured after his City Council outburst but the antics from District 10 were even worse.

Councilman Perry was issued a warrant after he left the scene of a hit-and-run accident.

Deadly explosion rocked South Presa Street in an underground home with 4,000 square feet.

Earthquakes in San Antonio are seldom seen but November's shake closed the Robert B. Green.

Free Tuition opens opportunities for vocations with AlamoPROMISE at many campus locations.

Governor's Race was as explosive as a powder keg. But Beto lost, Governor's Mansion stays with Greg.

Hispanic Elvis has died, but you can still view his image on the wall on San Pedro Avenue.

Immigration is a national issue but a local one too. Congressman Tony Gonzales wants to keep Title 42.

Jefferson High School feared a gunman was around and so the campus launched a premature lockdown.

Killer on the loose was the news on social media but a police spokesman squelched that hysteria.

Layoffs at USAA because of 'shifts in the marketplace.' Robust consumer spending cannot keep pace.

Migrants seeking asylum face a cold hard winter. 1,800 pass daily through the Migrant Resource Center.

Nelson Wolff ends his career at age 82. He served the State, the City, and Bexar County, too.

O'Rourke has lost three races since 2018, but don't expect him to disappear from the scene.

Popovich is now the winningest coach in the NBA. And he's done it with aplomb, a sense of fair play.

Queens just want to celebrate their Christmas cheer but armed protesters object to their notion of queer.

Roadrunners are proud to call San Antonio home. They won another championship in the Alamodome.

San Pedro Creek Culture Park completes Phase One. That leaves Phase Two, Three, and Four to be done.

Tractor trailer becomes a tomb in a migrant tragedy as 53 died in a crime against humanity.

Uvalde's mass shooter caused 21 people to die – while 376 law enforcement officers were standing by.

VIPs get a peek at the new Alamo exhibit hall. It opens next year when artifacts are installed.

Waters in South Texas rivers are drying out. Is Global Warming the blame for the drought?

X-Cop Brennand was fired from the police after he fired on a teen eating a burger with cheese.

Yanaguana Garden was the best playground in 2022. It has swings and things that kids like to do.

Zoo's oldest elephant, Lucky, has passed away. She entertained millions back in her day.

That was 2022's news in Alamo City. Stay tuned for the headlines of 2023.
